The experiences of successive lockdowns for almost the last two years, far from suppressing the activities of the Society have in fact stimulated it into action.

Our new exhibition marks the moment when all that creative activity can finally be brought out into the open.

It demonstrates the passionate resilience and determination of the members to continue to flourish as an active society in spite of the limitations of a pandemic.

This exhibition is the embodiment of an emergence into the light at the end of a long dark tunnel of isolation, an isolation sustained by creative endeavour.
